A HELPFUL FACULTY.

Here at Carleton we have an attitude possessed by a certain part of our college community which is more or less of an anomaly in a great many other educational institutions. That attitude—a small thing perhaps, but how it tends to ameliorate some of the rigors of academic life—that attitude is the spirit of helpfulness exhibited by the greater part of our faculty. Not endeavoring to take advantage of their situations as custodians of the grade-books, nor yet to assert a superiority in cogency or in experience, with few exceptions they strive to be the faithful propagandists of learning and the steadfast servants of the student-body, their followers. An atmosphere of mutual endeavor is created as a result of this spirit of service and more amicable relations between teacher and taught arise, therefrom.

CONTRIBUTORS' COLUMN.

The next issue of The Carletonian will contain a portion of a column reserved for contributions from the Carleton reading public. The themes of these contributions may be any subject whatsoever, of interest to Carletonian readers. Criticisms, suggestions, expression of approval or disapproval will be published in this column. It will be strictly understood, however, that no expression of sentiment, one way or the other, will be taken necessarily to be that of the editors of The Carletonian. All articles for publication must be addressed to the editor of The Carletonian, must be signed by the writer (the signature may be accompanied by a pseudonym if desired) and must be in the office of The Carletonian two days before the next of date of publication.

CARLETON-ST. OLAF GOAT.

The Carleton-St. Olaf Basketball Goat which was created some years ago by St. Olaf to serve as a prize for the basketball contests between the two schools has again been stolen from Sayles-Hill Gymnasium where it was wont to repose in the trophy room.

It was not stolen by St. Olaf, who has been endeavoring in splendid good-natured rivalry for many seasons past to win it back. Strangely enough it disappeared during the final quarter of the Hamline-Carleton football game under very similar conditions to those which existed when Hamline stole it in the fall of 1919. Very likely it is a coincidence that the Goat should disappear while Hamline students were our guests, but it does seem rather queer to have the same coincidence two years under similar conditions.

Of course we wouldn't for the world think of insinuating or even suggesting that any Hamline student had anything whatsoever to do with its sudden disappearance because they wouldn't be so unsportsmanlike as to take a little traditional prize from St. Olaf and Carleton any more than Illinois would think of stealing the Michigan-Minnesota Brown Jug from either of the latter.

It would be nice to have some trophy, emblem, or object surrounded by traditions to pass back and forth between Hamline and Carleton, in football, basketball, track, and baseball, either for one or all, because of the intense athletic rivalry which always surrounds meetings of the two schools but in the mean time before any such is established, if indeed it should be established, we heartily trust Hamline will join us—St. Olaf and Carleton—in our search for the missing quadruped.
